Gone, but not forgotten.

Bride No. 13 in 1913, bride No. 14 in 1914. Wait and see.

A man named Rye wants to be governor of Tennessee and live in the Rock city.

Daniel O'Connell, the oldest Elk, died in Owosso, Mich., the other day, aged 109 years.

Senators Brock, Marshall, Salmon and Overstreet were not in at the finish of the state-wide resolution.

Let us not be too hard on Governor McCreary for not calling an extra session. He knows his crowd.

All the tears shed in Kentucky yesterday over the adjournment of the Legislature would not moisten a postage stamp.

With Miss Jessie and Miss Eleanor off the carpet, attention will once more be directed to those rumors about Miss Margaret.

One of the Texas Rangers who ventured across the river at Laredo, Texas, was captured by Mexicans and given a stay-away notice.

Another husband killer has been cleared in Chicago, making two in a week and fourteen in three years. This time it was Mrs. Van Keurer, who thought John was a burglar.

The commission form of government bill passed in the House 60 to 3 and was immediately concurred in by the Senate, after some objectionable changes had been stricken out.

Prof. De Courtenay, a distinguished member of the faculty of the University of St. Petersburg, has been sentenced to prison for two years for writing a pamphlet advocating federalism.

Declining to heed the suggestion of President Wilson, the Independent (Prohibition) Democratic State Committee of Tennessee called conventions for State officers, and endorsed Gov. B. W. Hooper, Republican.

The advocates of good roads won a signal victory in the Senate by the passage of the McDyer-Bosworth bill, providing for a five-cent tax levy to aid counties in the construction of public roads and making effective the State aid amendment.

E. L. Brown, who sued the city of Clarksville because his mule became frightened at a steam roller and threw him, lost his case in the Court of Appeals. Mr. Brown should have taken a course in broncho busting before riding a country mule to town.

Gen. Alvarez has insulted Gov. Colquitt, of Texas. He not only refused to return the horses stolen by Mexican soldiers from the murdered Vergara, but advised the Governor to have the state of Texas employ some competent adviser to advise him that his demand should go through proper diplomatic channels.

John W. Landrum, Past Grand Master of the Kentucky Grand Lodge of Masons, died Sunday and was buried at Mayfield Tuesday. He was 53 years old and had long been one of the leading men in Western Kentucky. He was President of the Mayfield Water Co. He had the distinction of being one of the handsomest men in Kentucky and had friends all over the State.

The United States customs office and postoffice at Tecate were burned Saturday and the postmaster, Frank V. Johnston, was shot dead and another man wounded by three Mexican bandits. Johnston refused to give the combination to his safe. A charred American flag was found in the ruins of Johnston's store, which also was the customs office and the postoffice. A posse started at daybreak in pursuit of the bandits. Bitter feeling along the border, caused by the tragedy, was intensified Sunday when a newspaper photographer on the American side was

SENATE KILLS STATE-WIDE

Webb Bill Dies In Committee During The Closing Hours Tuesday.

NEW RAILROAD RATE LAW.

As Amended It Is Pronounced a "Farce" By Several Senators.

Frankfort, Ky., March 18.—By a vote of 18 to 15 the senate gave the death blow to the state-wide prohibition bill after Senator W. A. Frost, of Wingo, had moved that the bill be taken from the hands of the rules committee and placed upon its passage. Senator Moore moved that the Frost resolution be tabled and his motion carried by the vote named. The passage of the tax amendment, which was approved by the voters last November, the defeat of the amendment providing for working of convicts on the public roads and the defeat of the Marshall bill to appropriate $50,000 for a state exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition were outstanding features of the last day's sessions in the house.

The revenue and taxation bill was killed by the senate at 9 o'clock last night. The vote was 21 to 13. Governor McCreary when informed of the senate's action by the press correspondent said he would not call an extra session of the legislature to enact just tax laws.

"Both house and senate members have had ample time to consider the measure. My heart was set upon its passage but I will not call the members back at an expense to the state daily of $10 each. If they have been derelict in duty let them answer to their constituents."

The 2½ cent railroad bill, amended until it is merely a "farce," according to several witnesses, passed the senate at 9:45 o'clock last night by a vote of 29 to 6. As passed by the house, roads earning less than $4,000 were exempted. This amendment was offered by Senator Huffaker.

At 11 o'clock the excitement started in the house. Representative Webb, leader of the prohibition forces, sought to prevent the house reconsidering its vote on the convict labor amendment.

"Do not vote for such an amendment," he shouted, "or you kill irrevocably all chance for passage by the whisky-soaked senate of the state-wide prohibition bill." His colleagues were unheeding. They reconsidered their vote and reversed themselves on the proposition of convict labor on the state's highways. Majority Leader Hamilton heatedly replied to a Louisville editor who called the legislators "a herd of wild asses."

The "Red Light" and "Boxing" Bills failed to be called out and put upon their passage. The 2½ cent Railroad Fare Bill lost out in conference.

The bill of Senator Marshall providing for the oiling of streets in third class cities, passed the House by vote of 60 to 4.

The anti-pass bill was defeated in the Senate 19 to 14. The Finn railroad bill was lost 21 to 11.

GLENN'S SIDE OF IT

Author of The Drastic Insurance Law Makes A Statement.

"I feel that the time has come for me to give to the people of Kentucky my explanation of what I believe is the true insurance situation in this State. It has been reported in the daily press that something like sixty companies have withdrawn from the State. There have been only four that have withdrawn, and they are small companies; the others have only suspended. There is a wide difference between the word suspension and the word withdrawal. When a company withdraws it loses all of its agency force all over the State and cancels its licenses to do business, and if it should want to come back in the State the Insurance Commissioner could have it examined at a great deal of expense to it, and it would be forced to pay $3 for each agent's license; but to suspend costs it nothing. Why are these companies suspending? This law does not go into effect for three months, and there is nothing in the new law, as amended; that should interfere with any insurance company doing a legitimate business. The board has no more right to cut rates under the new law than under the old. The features of the new law are a commission to investigate the fire insurance conditions of this state and codify the present insurance laws, and this commission the insurance companies say they want; a hydraulic and electrical engineer, whose duty it will be to work in the cities and towns and advise with the City Council in regard to installation of water works and electric light plants (the insurance companies also asked for this provision); and three inspectors whose duties it will be to go over the State and educate the people how to remedy the defects in their buildings.

KENTUCKY FIRE WASTE.

"The insurance companies state, when you ask them the question why the insurance rate is higher in Kentucky than in other States, that the fire waste in Kentucky is over $1,000,000, and I agree with them, and it is the purpose of this bill only to do away with this fire waste, and I believe that a representative of the State can and will do this. The insurance people claim that they are paying $25,000 a year to accomplish this and it has no effect. We only ask for $17,000 to do this same work. The fire insurance loss in the last forty three years in the United States averaged 58 per cent; in Kentucky 56 per cent. The average insurance rate in the United States was $1.06; the average rate in Kentucky was $1.34. Under the above figures our rate in Kentucky should be $1.02. The policy holder paid to the insurance companies last year in premiums $5,390,000 and the companies paid out in fire losses $3,000,000; adding to that the cost of their agency forces, taxes and Actuarial Bureau expenses would leave them a net profit of about 19 per cent. The board has been trying to work with the insurance companies for two years, and I am sure will do nothing that would work an injury upon any insurance company, but rather will work with them to the end that this fire waste may be done away with, the people will be benefited and the insurance companies will not be injured.

Governor Stands Pat.

Gov. McCreary told 300 business men of Louisville who appealed to him in person at Frankfort that he would not call an extra session of the legislature to repeal the Greene-Glenn insurance law amendment. He declared he had polled the legislature, and not a man had been willing to change his vote. At the meeting at the Capitol building the Louisville men pointed out the dire effects of the law, and were reproached by the Governor for not protesting earlier, and were told by Ruby Laffoon, head of the State Insurance Rating Board, to appeal to the companies to stay in

CHILD LABOR BILL IS PASSED

No Newsboys Or Workers In Streets Under 14 Years Of Age.

TUNIS LABOR LAW PASSED.

Required to Be 21 Years Old To Do Night Messenger Service.

Frankfort, Ky., March 18.—The drastic Tunis Child Labor Bill, providing that in first, second and third-class cities "no person under 21 years of age shall be employed as messenger for any telegraph, telephone or messenger company in the distribution, transmission or delivery of goods or messages before 6 o'clock in the morning or after 9 o'clock in the evening," passed the House Monday by the vote of 71 to 13. The measure had previously passed the Senate. Section 15 of the bill provides that "no boy under 14 years of age, nor girl under 18, shall be employed, permitted or suffered to work at any time in city of the first, second or third-class in or in connection with the street occupations of peddling, bootblacking, the distribution or sale of newspapers, magazines, periodicals or circulars, nor in any other occupation pursued in any street or public place."

William Duffy, of Louisville; Stanley F. Reed, of Mason, and others spoke for the bill. Among those who opposed it were Representatives Polin, of Washington county, and Humphrey, of Fleming. The latter referred to late Gov. Gobel, who used to sell newspapers on the streets of Covington, and argued that his youthful employment made a man of him.

Representative Polin asked what the boy would do now who sells newspapers on the streets to support a widowed mother, perhaps, and a little sister. He said he thought the measure a vicious one.

William Duffy said the purpose of the bill was to save the boy and declared that some of the best women of Louisville were back of the measure.

Representative Reed said the bill had been drafted at the instance of the Kentucky Child Labor Association.

Those who voted against the bill were: Representatives Boitnott, Cox, Douglas, H. C. Duffy, Farriss, Gum, Henry, Kelly, Pumphrey, Radcliffe, Ray, Shawler and Stott.

The bill of Senator W. F. Welch, of Estill county, to prohibit the sale of tobacco to minors, passed the House by a vote of 63 to 7.

WILL MEET IN LOUISVILLE

Farmers and Business Men of South to Hold Conference for Education.

The program for the conference of farmers and business men which will meet in Louisville, Ky., April 7, 8, 9 and 10 has been a matter of great care and attention on the part of the officers. They have felt that the day for the convention when papers and discussions were the main part of the program had passed and something of a more definite nature must be introduced. The program, which is gradually being developed, shows conclusively that they have gotten something new and something which should get results.

Each afternoon of the four days of the conference will be used for papers and discussions of the ordi-

BECKHAM'S CAMPAIGN

For Senator Is Opened With a Reply To Stanley's Charges.

Elizabethtown, Ky., March 18.—Former Governor J. C. W. Beckham today opened his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, addressing a gathering that filled the courthouse.

Mr. Beckham denied the charges of Congressman Stanley relating to his attitude toward the railroads, stating that the bills of which Mr. Stanley complains were enacted ten and twelve years ago by almost unanimous vote of the Legislature, and that no attempt has ever been made to repeal the legislation which aroused the ire of the Second District Congressman. He also said that he did not receive "a large salary," as charged by the Congressman, but that his fees from his service as an attorney for the railroads altogether were about $800 a year.

Mr. Beckham proceeded to say that the railroad issue raised by Stanley was a false one, intended to disguise the real issue, which was Stanley's own attitude on the liquor question. He said that while Stanley had been advertising himself as the fearless foe of the trusts, that he was really the tool of the greatest trust of them all—the Liquor Trust of Kentucky. Referring to the Tobacco Trust, he said that Stanley had never rendered the grower any greater relief than by making inflammatory speeches, whereas that while he (Beckham) was Governor he assisted in every way within his power to aid the growers.

It is indeed fortunate that Louisville has an armory with a floor space of two acres, so that all of the demonstrations of co-operative movements in rural life might be given on a large scale.

NEW ROAD SUPERVISOR

Herbert Dillman Succeeds Ernest Coleman, Who Resigned.

ELECTRIC FRANCHISE SOLD.

Kentucky Public Service Co. The Only Bidder For Franchise Offered.

The Fiscal Court held a session Tuesday to ratify the sale of a county electric franchise, which was sold to the Kentucky Public Service Co. for $114, the cost of advertising. There was only one bidder. No rates are specified in the franchise for service for light or power to individual users along these lines as the company does not contemplate at this time taking up this character of business. A clause in the franchise provides that if they do decide to go after this patronage that rates are then to be established, subject to the approval of the fiscal court.

E. W. Coleman resigned as Road Supervisor, to take effect at once. Judge Knight appointed J. Herbert Dillman, of Casky, to fill the position and appointment was confirmed by a vote of 5 to 3. Mr. Dillman is a prominent citizen and a good business man. He has already taken the required examination and will qualify in a day or two.

The court decided to purchase a set of standard weights and measures and County Attorney Ira D. Smith was appointed to make the purchase. There are already rigid statutes against short weight and the city has an ordinance to the same effect. A petition was presented recommending H. M. Bolinger for inspector of weights and measures. Further action was deferred.

The court took steps to locate quarries convenient to the pikes in accordance with the assurances from farmers that they would haul and spread the rock, if the county would furnish and crush it. It is proposed to crush and pile the stone in convenient places and the citizens will repair the pikes in their own neighborhoods. While this is being done on pike roads, the farmers on dirt roads will be using the split-log drags and a great deal of public money will thus be saved. Esquires Morris and Hamby were named as a committee to make a final settlement with Miss Jennie West, former County Superintendent of Schools.

Whistler Did Not Care.

One day the late James McNeill Whistler, the famous artist, went into a London hat shop. He stood there bareheaded, as the clerk had taken his hat to another part of the shop to match it. As he leaned idly against the counter, a man rushed up to him, took off his hat, thrust it into Whis-tler's face, and exclaimed in anger:
"Look here, I want you to understand that I know something about hats, and I insist that this hat doesn't fit me!" Whistler looked at the man with interest; then he smiled politely. "Please put the hat on," he said, and the angry man did so. Whistler looked him over critically from head to foot; then in his peculiar, drawing manner, he said:"Quite right, quite right, sir, it does not fit. Neither does your coat; and furthermore, your waistcoat is too large, and your trousers are a horrible color."
After Whistler went out, it took the proprietor half an hour to convince the man that it was not one of the clerks who had insulted him.—Youth's

POTATO FOOT ROT

New Disease of the Sweet Variety Is Discovered.It Attacks Primarily the Lower Part of Stem From the Soil Line to Four or Five Inches Above It.Washington.—A new disease, the foot rot of the sweet potato, has recently been discovered by the pathologists of the United States department of agriculture, which threatens to materially restrict the production of the crop in certain localities. It was first observed on sweet potatoes growing in the vicinity of the Dismal Swamp, Virginia, during the summer of 1912.
At that time it was believed to be very limited in its distribution, since search for it elsewhere was unsuccessful. The next summer, however, it was found in other parts of Virginia, namely, at Cape Charles and Keller. It is probable that it occurs elsewhere. At all of these places considerable damage was done to the crop, and in some fields as much as 60 to 95 per cent. of the plants were diseased.The disease is known as foot rot and attacks primarily the lower part of the stem from the soil line to four or five inches above it. The fungus kills the plants by the destruction of the epidermis or bark of the stem.
Sometimes the organism may attack the vine several feet from the hill, usually where the leaf is attached, and from there spreads in both directions.
Small black spots about the size of a pin point and just visible to the naked eye are formed on the diseased spots. These are the fruiting bodies of the fungus. From the destruction occasioned by this disease during the seasons of 1912 and 1913, it is not unlikely that it may be a serious menace to the crop in localities where it occurs. To what extent it may spread cannot be foreseen, though it is likely to be confined to somewhat humid regions.The disease may be distributed in several ways. It has been found in the hotbeds on the slips and is probably carried on them to the field. It has been shown also that the growing organism will grow from the affected potato onto the slips growing therefrom. Furthermore, the fungus will grow from diseased plants onto the potatoes produced from them. The organism causing the disease lives over the winter on the dead vines in the field and may infect healthy plants when set out in the spring.The sale and exchange of potatoes or slips is another method of distributing the disease from one farm to another, or from one locality to another.
This disease, like many others of a similar kind, may be distributed on farm implements, on the feet of cattle or horses which roam from one field to another. The spores may even be carried with dust during strong winds.In view of these facts, it is apparent that sanitary methods should be employed in controlling the disease.
These should consist in the careful selection of only sound, healthy potatoes for seed. The soil for the hot-bed should be obtained two or three feet below the surface after throwing off the top layer, or from woods where there is no possibility that it might be infested. Healthy slips produced by these methods should be planted on ground where sweet potatoes have never been grown, or at least where the disease has never occurred. Healthy slips planted on diseased soil will become diseased. Neither seed sweet potatoes nor plants should be purchased from localities where this disease is prevalent. The disease will likely increase each year if sweet potatoes are planted continually on the same ground.

NEW NATIONAL FOREST.

The secretary of agriculture has just designated a new area in the southern Appalachians in which he thinks that lands should be purchased by the government for forest purposes in accordance with the provisions of the Weeks' law.This area is in northwestern Alabama, and includes 152,960 acres at the headwaters of the Warrior river in Lawrence and Winston counties.
For a number of years extensive improvements by the government have been under construction on the Tombigbee and the Warrior rivers, and a system of locks and dams to provide for 360 miles of navigable stream is now near completion. This improvement gives a direct water route for the shipment of coal from one of the southernmost coal fields direct to gulf coast ports, and, by means of the Panama canal, to points on the Pacific.The presence of a forest cover to protect the headwaters of the streams and to help equalize their flow is considered extremely important by Secretary Houston, and it is for this reason that he thinks it advisable to locate a government forest area in the region.The new area in which purchases will be made is at the extreme southern portion of the Appalachian region, about 150 miles from the nearest lands which the government has purchased hitherto in Polk county, Tenn., and Fannin county, Georgia.
The new area is almost completely covered with forest; 92 per cent. of it has never been cleared, and of the eight per cent. upon which clearing has been attempted three per cent. has been abandoned and is reverting to forest growth. There is a verytimber, but there has been on great amount of lumbering because the locality has been too far from transportation facilities.One striking thing about the region is that, although it has been settled for considerably more than a hundred years, a part of the land is still public domain. Fully 9,000 acres have never been taken up by private owners under the various land laws.
These lands have now been withdrawn from settlement, and Secretary Houston will request that they be set aside as a nucleus for the proposed national forest. The purchase of private lands will also be undertaken, and as quickly as possible the government will build up another national forest of sufficient size for economical protection and administration.

ALASKA'S REINDEER INDUSTRY.

There are not less than 30,000 domesticated reindeer in Alaska today, according to estimates of the department of agriculture. This means that the reindeer industry is by far the largest agricultural proposition in Alaska at this time, and more stringent government measures should be taken to prevent the rapid destruction of these animals. The industry under scientific management should develop rapidly, according to experts, and the present herds form a very promising basis upon which a great industry may be built.It appears that there have been instances of cross-breeding domesticated reindeer and the native wild caribou.
It is thought that the blood of the latter could be used to good advantage in building up the reindeer herds. At present the domesticated deer seem to decrease in size and otherwise degenerate because of the lack of careful selection of breeding animals. The caribou are superior in size and vigor, but are not of so wild a nature as to make their domestication impracticable.

HIGHEST POINT IN OHIO.

That exploration and discovery in the actual meaning of the word are not confined to the uncharted wilds of Alaska is shown by the fact that a new record altitude has been determined for Ohio. Until recently the highest point in Ohio, according to the United States geological survey, was near Mansfield, in Richland county, the elevation of which is 1,479 feet above sea level, but in the course of topographic surveying last summer by the survey a point was found whose elevation is 1,550 feet above sea level, or nearly 1,000 feet higher than the surface of Lake Erie. This place is about two and one-half miles east of the city of Bellefontaine, in Logan county, and is locally known as Campbell's Hill. It is stated to be unlikely that there is any higher point in Ohio; as nearly the whole state has now been topographically surveyed. The lowest point in the state is on the Ohio river and has an elevation of 425 feet; the average elevation for the whole state is not far from 850 feet.

DID REAL WORK.

Congressman A. J. Sabath of Chicago, along with half a dozen other congressmen, had an exciting time reaching the capitol in time to answer to the roll call at the initial session of the regular session of the Sixty-third congress.Mr. Sabath got to Baltimore on Schedule time. There his trouble began. The trip from Baltimore to Washington should have taken about one hour. Instead it took four. Three engines broke down in the course of the trip, and there were as many transfers to other trains."I had a good idea of how congressmen would look as actors on the road," said Mr. Sabath. If these particular congressmen don't work hard in Washington when they are serving their constituents, they certainly did while they were lugging their suitcases and other impedimenta from train to train.

Was Taking a Vacation.

That charity without discretion is readily abused is aptly exemplified by the story of Georgiana Simpson, an old colored woman, who was always employed by a southern family whenever extra help was needed. There never had been any difficulty in securing her services, and therefore, when three postal cards failed to bring a response one of the family called upon Georgi-ana to see what the trouble was. Mrs.
G— found Georgiana well and happy, and she welcomed her mistress very cordially. "I suttiny is mos' pow-ful glad to see you, Miss G—," said Georgiana. "An' is de fambly all to-table well jes' now?" "Yes, we are all well, Georgiana," said Mrs. G—.
"But I want to know why you didn't come when I wrote to you? We felt sure you must be ill." "Oh, no, 'deed, Miss G—," said the colored woman, as she tilted her black head airily.
"I's enjoin' th' bes' ob health, an' de

How Planets Came Into Being.
From the striking relation of planetary motions, a British scientist has made the deductions that the planets grew out of scattered material each bringing the next into being by perturbation, with Jupiter as the starting point, and the only planet with an original nucleus. From the law of evolution worked out, it is concluded that the nearest planet beyond Neptune should be 47.5 as far from the sun as the earth, and comparable with Neptune in size.

Thimbles Centuries Old.
Thimbles have been known for many centuries. Some specimens unearthed by archaeologists are known to be 2,500 years old. They are of bronze, and their outer surfaces show the familiar indentations for engaging the head of the needle. These thimbles are almost exactly like those of our day, except that they have no tops with which to cover the end of the finger.

ROAD BUILDING

OIL APPLIED TO DIRT ROADS

Much Used in Illinois as Preventive of Mud as Well as Dust—Several Good Methods.

(By T. M. CISEL)

Many roads in the oil fields of Illinois have been treated with oil which is a preventive of mud as well as dust. Roads that were put in shape and well sprinkled with oil last fall stood the winter travel which is always heavy in the oil fields, and came out in the spring with very little needed repairs.

In applying oil to our common dirt roads several methods are employed. Sometimes where the road is in good shape the oil is sprinkled on without any further preparations. This is sufficient for summer roads and for holding down the dust, but a better method should be employed where good winter roads are expected.

First the road should be well worked with the road machine, then apply the oil with sprinkler, putting on enough to well dampen the fresh worked dirt, then a disk or harrow should be used to mix the oil well with the clay; after sprinkling again, the roller is used to smooth down and pack the roads.

After this the road should be sprinkled once a month in winter to keep it from taking water.

All ruts must be filled with dirt as soon as they commence to form. Also wet down this filling with oil.

After two years of this treatment roads become solid and show but little waste from travel and rain. Well oiled roads are dustless.

Sand roads are treated the same way but require more oil to put them in shape. A common water tank with street sprinkling attachment is all that is required for applying it to the roads.

PREVENT STEEP ROAD CUTS

Difficulty Usually Experienced in Mountains or Hilly Country is in Repairing Washouts.

In a mountainous or hilly country where the roads must be built with considerable grade, one difficulty which is usually experienced in their maintenance is in repairing washouts.

When a heavy shower falls upon the road and adjoining country, water will find its way to the depressions worn by the wheels. It flows down these depressions, gaining volume and velocity as it goes until the road surface is eroded and deep ruts often formed. The road which was good in the beginning is now rough and rutty and unpleasant and even dangerous to travel over.

One of the very best methods for preventing this cutting writes E. B. House of the Colorado Agricultural College is to build across the road at intervals of two or three hundred feet, ditches running entirely across the road. These ditches should be about one foot deep and perhaps three feet wide. They should be so located that they will discharge their water at some distance from the road and in such places that the water will continue on down the hill from the road.

In order that the road may be smooth, plank bridges are placed across these ditches. These are very simple affairs, 4x4 answering the purpose for the stringers and 2x6s or 2x4s doing very well for the flooring. These planks should be placed so that cracks one and one-half to two inches wide are left between each plank. These cracks then running across the road allow the water coming down the road to go through them, into the ditch and pass away. In this way the volume of water flowing over the road surface is kept down and cutting prevented.

MAINTENANCE IS ESSENTIAL

Road Repairing as Important as Building, According to Official of Agricultural Department.

Logan W. Page, chief of the office of public roads, of the department of agriculture, is bending every energy to impress upon the people of the country that maintenance and effective repair are of equal importance with the actual improvement of bad roads. Investment of money in new roads does not become real economy until provision is made for keeping those new roads in condition after they are built. If a new road was built and then allowed to fall into disrepair, much of the original investment is simply wasted.

Quite frequently the office of public roads, when called upon for assistance by the various states, points out that road building is an art based on a science, and that trained men and experienced men are necessary to secure the best results from the expenditure of road funds.

Statisticians have figured out that although the average expenditure on the improvement of roads exceeds $1,000,000 a day, a large portion of it is wasted because of the failure to build the right type of road to meet local requirements or the failure to provide for the continued maintenance of the improvement.

Improve Social Conditions.
Good roads not only bring the market nearer to you but they improve the social condition of your community because they bind neighbors and friends more closely.

GIVE FARM ANIMALS CHANCE

Fault of Farmer if Stock Fails to Make Profit—Opportunities Must Be Created for Them.

It isn't the fault of your stock if they fail to make a profit for you. They live up to their opportunities. How few men do!

If the pig fails to grow, it is because you have not let him. If the calf gets pot-bellied, it is not his fault. If the colt is wild and shy, is it his fault or yours? If the lamb is a scabby, ticky, good-for-nothing specimen, don't blame the lamb. If the chickens mope around with wings trailing, sit in judgment on their keeper.

The pig will use every opportunity for growth you offer. See how quickly he finds and uses a hole in the fence so he can get greener pasture. The calf will grow into a prime baby beef or fine dairy cow if you give the opportunity. The colt will be fearless and safe if you introduce him sensibly to all sorts of peculiar noises and sights. Give him the opportunity to see the world while yet a youngster. The lamb will be a frisky ball of wool and mutton if you help him get rid of the things that pester him. Give him a fair show. The chicks will grow into morning crows and cackle in a short time if they have a decent place to live in and are given the opportunity to develop.

Create opportunities for the stock that are dependent upon you. Give them a fair show and they will show you what nature does with an opportunity.

KEEPING EWES' FLEECE DRY

Of Great Importance That Sheep Be Protected From Winter Rains—Salt and Water Essential.

The protection of breeding ewes from falling snow is important, especially is it important when it falls in the form of rain. Winter rains and also sleet are always cold. If sheep of the open-wooled breed are long exposed to these they may do great harm. The closed-wool breed, as the merinos, will be harmed much less, as the water cannot readily enter the wool that they carry. The shelter provided up to the lambing season may be of the simplest kind, providing it will protect from storms and rains.

The aim should be to give the breeding ewes large liberty in winter, if the ground is bare, or even partially, for it will do them good to give them large liberty. They will make excursions to the fields in search of grass, and the exercise will do them much good. They should be allowed to lie in a well bedded yard at night, in a shed or house adjoining, as they prefer.

The other necessary attentions include regular feeding, a supply of salt at all times accessible, and an ample supply of pure water and a yard apart from those of horses and cattle.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Feeding racks will pay for themselves in the hay saved.

Timothy fed alone is constipating, and that means trouble for the sheep.

There is no sense or profit in feeding hogs or pigs after they are fit to kill.

The price of pork should convince any person that there is profit in good hogs.

Each horse should be carefully studied and given what he requires for his health.

Every horse should be cleaned twice each year, spring and fall, and road horses more often.

There can be a great saving of hay this coming winter, on many farms, by not stuffing the horses.

Many a gelding is dosed for "kidney trouble," when the real cause of his condition is foul sheath.

The fall pig that goes into the winter in a weak, run-down condition has a life of misery ahead of him.

In making pens for winter use, do not build on too big a scale. A few hogs in a pen will do better than too many.

LETTER FROM SIAM

Miss Starling Tells of The Daily Life of Missionaries In Asia.

Nan N. Siam, Dec. 6th, 1913.

After a very pleasant trip, I got in last Monday noon. We reached Wang Sea early Sunday morning, and Dr. B. brought the buggy nearly to that place, to take us in, so Mrs. C. went on with him, but I spent Sunday with the people there, and enjoyed it very much. Some of the girls had come down the day before, to meet me, so they had sent word to all the Christians around, to come in to service. So there was a good crowd there and we had two services that day.

In the afternoon I was called in to see a woman who had been sick with fever for some time. She was an older sister of one of our Christians, but neither she nor her husband had consented to come in. And when I got there her wrists were bound with "spirit strings." I gave her calomel and quinine, her stomach was swelled, and I left more for her to take.

Yesterday one of our Christian men came in with some baskets we had to leave behind, and said that the woman was better after taking the medicine, but later got worse. So some of the Christians went there, (she was saying that the spirits were eating her up inside and she was going to die), and asked her if she would leave the spirits and put her trust in God, which she consented to do. They then prayed and had a service, and they say that from that time she began to improve without using any medicine at all. So I sent down more medicine, and two of the elders are going down next week. This is in a deeply superstitious community where the people are in mortal fear of the spirits, and this case ought to be of great value in our work there. She has a dear little girl, whom she will send up to school, I hope. Her husband consented to her becoming a Christian, so I hope he may come in later.

I have been busy this week unpacking boxes, which arrived after I had left for Bangkok. This meant that I had time to open the trunk and examine the contents more carefully, than I had time to do, that morning on the bank. Everything is just lovely, and my checked suit is greatly admired. We have just had a cold spell and it is doing me lots of good. It is really beautiful. I like the brown striped lawn too, have worn it once or twice, but it is almost too cool for anything with elbow sleeves. I haven't had on the dress with the blue thread in it, but it is very pretty. That and the blue crepe are the only two dresses I haven't worn yet. I am going to wear the latter this afternoon to tea. The Consul (British) and Prosecuting Attorney are here from Lakawn on a murder trial, and Mrs. T. is having tea for them. The murderer is a Indian, therefore a British subject; so he has to be tried in a British court. He was in jail here serving a twenty year sentence and killed the jailer. There is no doubt of his guilt, but the trial is dragging along very slowly, and many witnesses have to be examined before he is pronounced guilty. All this, to uphold the majesty of the law.

Did I write you about the most recent engagement in our mission?

Miss B. came out last fall, and after 4 days' annual meeting, became engaged to Mr. R. a young man eight years her junior in the Chiang Mai boys school. They had made all preparations to marry this month and all her furniture had been sent down to Lakawn river to go in the Chiang Mai boats, when a letter came from the Board, saying she must not leave her school in Lakawn, until some one had been found to take her place. So the wedding has been indefinitely postponed, and she is, in rather an embarrassing situation. You see every single woman who comes out, pledges herself not to marry on the field for three years, or off the field for five years. Several ladies have recently gone back on their word in this mission so evidently the Board thought it was time to call a halt. Miss B. had ordered her wedding dress from National Cloak Co., so I suppose it will be out of style by the time she is ready to use it. A good many hope that the thing will eventually be called off altogether; that he got too lonely, and proposed to the first woman who would have him.

Nan, Siam, Dec. 19th, 1913.

Have just come to the close of a very busy week, one of the kind where your tongue hangs out afterward. School has begun, and it has taken some elbow-grease, to get things in running order; and will take some more, next week. We are making a few preparations for Xmas, not very much. I have bought fancy crackers for the girls, and hair-pins for the elder ones. And we are going to give them candy and cakes, Thursday afternoon, when all the church people will meet, to play games. Mrs. B. is going to give the Xmas dinner. I want to give the children a lesson on giving, so am having them sew cards of animals and birds, as presents for the fathers and mothers.

We also have Gov't exams, looming up for us, in another month, and are working hard to prepare the children for that.

I spent nights over at T., until school began, and enjoyed the change; but I am glad, too, to be in my own home again at night, and to have the girls here. We started in this week with thirty-five girls, and more will be in later. There are some nice new ones, and the outlook is encouraging, though I don't think we will have quite as large a school as we had last term. Dr. T. was tied up with building, and there was no one to go out and bring the children in. I wish I could have gone, but it seemed impossible.

Day before yesterday we got a wire from S., saying that the P. were expected yesterday, and we got a wire from them, that they had reached Bangkok. They are coming up by boat, so we won't see them for a month yet. The boats start from Wang Sea, the first of the week, and I am sending down to Miss C., about thirty yards of native cloth for towelling, and some native skirts, all of which were done on our looms. I hope we can find a market in Bangkok, for some of our goods.

Hopkinsville Boy Burned Perhaps Fatally at Madisonville.

Walter Atkinson, aged 18, and two other young men, John Drew and Will Hamilton, were horribly scalded when a valve blew out an engine boiler at the Ruby Lumber Yard, Madisonville, yesterday. Atkinson is perhaps fatally burned, and the others not so severely. He is a son of L. F. Atkinson, formerly of this city.

Cincinnati Action Considered Decidedly Anticipatory.

Civic League Pictures.

On next Saturday, the 21st, the Civic League will give the people of Hopkinsville an opportunity of seeing some of the pictures of famous American Artists. There will be a display of these pictures at the Rex Theatre, which has been kindly offered to the League by its generous manager, Mr. Shrode. Copies of these paintings have been made on slides that can be thrown upon a screen by the same instruments used in moving pictures. This is a rare opportunity for Hopkinsville and it is hoped that large numbers will avail themselves of the privilege of seeing this exhibition.

MRS. J. M. BUTLER.

Prominent Lady Passes Away In Oak Grove Neighborhood.

Mrs. Mary Steger Butler, wife of Mr. John M. Butler, died yesterday at 1:30 o'clock, in the Oak Grove neighborhood, after a protracted illness of a stomach trouble. Some time last winter she underwent an operation at Nashville, but only temporary relief was afforded. She is survived by her husband and two little children, aged 8 and 5 years, and a large circle of relatives and friends. Mrs. Butler was 35 years old and was a devoted and consistent member of Salem Baptist Church. Her pastor, Rev. L. B. English, will conduct the funeral services to-day and the interment will be in the Pembroke cemetery.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Winter's Chills Breed Kidney Ills

Chilly, damp, changing weather is hard on the kidneys. Even more irritating are colds, grip, pneumonia, tonsillitis, quinsy and other infections. The kidneys get congested and inflamed, and this causes backache and disordered kidney action. Though serious in its latter stages, kidney disease is not hard to conquer if a good kidney remedy is used when the first signs of kidney trouble are noticed.

The best recommended kidney remedy in the world is Doan's Kidney Pills. You hear it everywhere. Get a box.

Spring Is Breaking; Backs Are Aching

Backache is often the first sign of some form of kidney disease that has been coming on for months. Look for the other signs;—lame back, sharp pains when stooping or lifting, dizzy spells, nervousness or despondency, with irregular, painful or distressing action of the kidneys; if these signs exist, decide that the kidneys need attention, ere the trouble turns to gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease.

Read this home testimony and then give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial.

TILLMAN WINS FIGHT

Tells Colleagues Life is Threatened by Smokers Who Light Cigars in Executive Session.

Washington.—After a characteristic speech at times pathetic and at other times humorous, Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, obtained the adoption in the Senate of an amendment to the rules prohibiting smoking in the executive sessions of the Senate. Senator Tillman said that twenty-one members of the Senate and Vice President Sherman had passed away in the last four years. The high rate of mortality, he said, was due to the fact that members of the Senate do not take proper care of their health.

Not so many years ago Senator Tillman was strong and robust. Four years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis. He has gradually recovered sufficient strength to resume his duties but his condition is feeble.

Majority Are Smokers.

"A majority of the senators," said Senator Tillman, "are smokers and, unfortunately, a vicious habit has so mastered them that they are nervous and miserable when they do not get the nicotine poison which soothes their nerves. Consequently as soon as the doors are closed for executive session they light their cigars and puff away. I did not mind tobacco smoke formerly, but since I was paralyzed four years ago the smell of tobacco smoke nauseates me. Consequently I do not remain in the Senate during executive sessions any more than I possibly can help, although I have most always responded to my name on roll call on any important matter."

Light Cigars In Caucus.

"I have found my Democratic colleagues so intent on gratifying their feverish desire to smoke that they feel compelled to light cigars in caucus," Senator Tillman continued, "so much so that I have almost had to leave that caucus or sit by an open window, for my very life depends upon a full supply of pure air. So I am beset with the danger of being driven out of the party and of the Senate itself, and I do not know where to turn. Since my illness four years ago I have learned more about the human body than during the balance of my life. I believe I could lengthen the life of every man in this chamber from six to fifteen years if I could only get them to believe what I tell them and follow my advice."

Senator Tillman said his rules of health were pure air and sunshine, exercise and self-control in eating.

New Ruling.

CAME AWAY A KINCHELOE MAN.

(Uniontown Telegram.)

When I went to hear the joint debate between Messrs. Kincheloe and Henson Monday last week at Morgantown, I was what would be expressed "a man on the fence." I had had several business transactions with Judge J. W. Henson and had known Mr. Kincheloe for several years, but had not decided which was the better man of the two for the office of congressman to represent this district.

Henson made a bitter attack on his opponent, saying at one time that he was a candidate without the support of his home county, Hopkins. I have been to Hopkins county lately and know that he will receive a very handsome majority from that county.

Dave Kincheloe—what does he represent? For seventeen years in every campaign he has been fighting for democracy and what has he got in return? Looking at it in that respect he deserves this office, and should be repaid for the faithful work that he has done for the Democratic party. Judge Henson, if he serves out his term of office, will have drawn $42,000 from the taxpayers of this district. Is this not enough to give to one man? Our constitutional government is opposed to continual service in office.

Besides, why did the people of this district elect Mr. Henson to the office of circuit judge? Surely, this election imposes a little responsibility

Purely Personal.

Hon. D. H. Kincheloe was in the city Tuesday in the interest of his canvass for the Congressional nomination. He is greatly pleased with his prospects.

Baby's Death.

ANNUAL ROLL CALL

Great Occasion At The Christian Church Last Sunday.

Promptly at 2:30 o'clock last Sunday afternoon the annual Roll Call of the Ninth Street Church of Christ began. The first named called was that of Miss Floy Moore. Miss Moore played in response a lovely prelude which at length passed into the strain of "The Son of God Goes Forth to War." This hymn was used as a processional for the chorus which marched to the measure of it around the church from the front entrance to the choir platform. The leaders and members of the companies into which for the occasion the church had been divided began to be called. At the calling of the name of Rev. C. H. H. Branch, he made an appropriate and fervent prayer for the service and the cause of missions, in behalf of which it was being held. To the name of Robert Wright he and the rest of the chorus responded in the anthem "When the Lord Shall Build Up Zion." Mr. J. O. Cook was to have responded in an address on "New Tires for the Missionary Car," but was detained at home by illness. Other companies were called and responded appropriately. When the Junior Choir was called, it and the Senior Choir responded with singing "America." "New Tires, How They Work and Wear," was the subject of the address of the occasion which was made by Rev. C. H. H. Branch. The address was worthy of its cultured and vigorous author, both in its matter and in its utterance.

After other companies had responded to the calling of their letters and numbers Mrs. L. E. Foster's name elicited the singing by a quartette, consisting of herself, Miss Ruth Haydon, Prof. Foster and Mr. McGinley, of a piece entitled "Why Stand Ye Here Idle?" This piece was most effectively given. The calling of the roll was continued and when in response to the name of Miss Etta Greenwood the full chorus sang "Jesus Shall Reign Where'er the Sun" in a way to stir all hearts in the great audience. After further calling of the roll the minister of the church made some remarks upon the business aspects of some new missionary plans now being adopted by the church.

A high point of interest in the service was reached when Mrs. Perkins sang in her own persuasive manner "Jesus Looks to You." And then the service was concluded with items which are in every roll call of the church. These are the salutation of congregational leaders by the congregation and the singing by the whole audience of "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder." The closing prayer and benediction was spoken by the minister and the brilliant young organist played the postlude.

Many Free Packages Being Given Away by Druggists

New Vapor Treatment That Relieves Colds Over Night—Croup in Fifteen Minutes.

Most people dread taking medicines. They shrink from the taste and after effects. Yet for as long as they can remember they have been dosing the stomach to cure cold troubles.

This is no longer necessary as the new vapor treatment, brought here from North Carolina, does away with internal medicines for these troubles.

It is a simple and harmless salve that is applied over the throat and chest. The heat of the body releases the vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Thymol, Eucalyptol, and Pine Tar, and these vapors are inhaled, all night long, through the air passages to the lungs.

You don't realize in the morning that you really had a cold, as the head is clear, phlegm loosened and soreness gone from the lungs. Croup really is relieved in fifteen minutes, and for all inflammations of the air passages, such as bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, hoarseness, etc., this new treatment will be found unusually effective.

Druggists know that this "external" form of treatment is a wonderful improvement over the old time "internal" medicines. A number of the leading druggists of Hopkinsville who have the interests of their customers at heart, have made arrangements to give away a limited number of 25-cent packages free.

Should your druggist have exhausted his supply of free packages you can purchase a 25c, 50c, or $1.00 jar on 30 days' trial. With each purchase you are given a refund blank, good for your money back, if this new treatment is not the best thing you have ever tried.

Among the druggists who are giving away free packages are the following:

J. O. Cook, Anderson-Fowler Drug Co., incorporated, L. L. Elgin, L. A. Johnson & Co., Averitt-Stowe Drug Co.

Coupon No. 8.

Good at your druggist's for one 25-cent package of Vicks Vapo-Rub Croup and Pneumonia Salve free. If your druggist has given away all his free packages, buy a jar on 30 days' trial.

Secret Wedding.

A wedding secret "leaked out" at Trenton Sunday. The bride is Miss Tessie Fairley, chief operator of the Christian-Todd Telegraph Company there, and the groom, Mr. Algine Denton, a young contractor. The marriage took place July 20, 1913, at Clarksville, Tenn., nearly eight months ago, and was kept a profound secret until now. The couple left Monday for Oak Grove, for a brief bridal trip to relatives.

Removal Notice.

"Teetotaler" Originated.
The word, the term applied to an abstinent from all fermented liquors, originated with Richard Turner, an artist of Preston, England, who, contending for the principle at a temperance meeting in 1833, asserted that "Not a drop of the total will do." The word was immediately adopted.

BURIED TREASURES

Some Strange Tales of Hidden Gold and Jewels.

Pirates' Loot Is Elusive, But Not a Few Have Dreamed of Digging Spanish Doubloons From the Earth—Only Dreams.

What child is there who cannot recall hearing at mother's knee stories of buried treasures. And what child has not dreamed of digging from the damp, dank earth Spanish doubloons or golden nuggets? Nor were they in childish fancy tainted, though hid by some swashbuckling pirate who roved the main with plank ever set for luck-less seafarers who came his way, the Kansas City Star states.

Down the generations has come the story of one who took his talents and buried them, and there is nothing to disprove the theory that he then but conformed to common custom.

A farmer digs a well, the drill strikes metal, and a pot of gold is unearthed. In the walls of a dismantled house a black box is revealed and its shiny treasure makes the finder a rich man. From New Haven comes the story of an Italian laborer, who, digging the foundation ditches for his modest home, disinterred enough golden guineas to clear his place from debt.

Few towns away from the prairie country but have their treasure caves, and veteran river men will point in passing to where some vessel treasure laden went to the locker of the fresh water David Jones, Esq.

At New London, Conn., townspeople still narrate a weird tale of treasure which disappeared from a Spanish vessel there 150 years ago. In 1753, to be exact, the galleon Stas, Jose y Elena, gold laden and bound from Mexico to Spain, was disabled in southern water and carried northward. After weeks of idle drifting, the boat was sighted by a relief ship and towed to port at New London.

When repairs had been made and the ship was ready to sail it was learned that from its hold the bulion had disappeared.

There was but one conjecture. The gold had been stolen and buried along the water front close by. Townspeople kept close watch, but no one ever came to reveal the hiding place.

Something more than half a century ago came there a seeress, who gave directions as to the whereabouts of the buried riches. Two youths gave credence to her powers and, their story goes on, on a murky night she led them to a cache where stood a chest marked plainly "Jose y Elena," but that when they tried to lift it the rusted handles broke away under their grip.

Abandoning the quest for the night, they returned the following day, but never again were they able to locate the mysterious box.

Not far from Buffalo an island in the Niagara river is said to be the trove of a French refugee and fairly dotted with boxes of jewels and pots of gold. Many prospectors have sunk their picks about the reputed site of the exile's cabin, but not one ever has discovered any treasure, save that once in 1888, at unusually low water, some coins dated 1537 were found at the very edge of the island.

It is known that Gardner's island was once the rendezvous of buccaniers, and many rumors tell of buried treasure there, long hidden loot of pirates.

Nor is the rumor of treasure trove confined to the Atlantic seaboard or the east, for from Oregon to Lower California beach dwelling folk cherish and retell the stories of their fathers to the little folks, who dream of growing up and finding the great stores of gold along the Pacific coast.

Even along the lower Mississippi there is a tale of $300,000 gold buried near Natchez, and a classic of Colorado is the legend of Peg Leg Smith, whose vast wealth died with him for all the world is concerned, no one ever having located the cache of the one-legged miner who did his trading with nuggets of huge size.

Out in the Three Hills regions there are some who still seek the cache where Peg Leg hoarded up his wealth—some indeed have perished in the search—but no one ever found the rumored gold.

Nearer home there is the wartime tale of buried silver teapots stacked to their brim with family jewels and American gold coin and left in ditches hastily dug, where owners, frightened, fled before the soldiery of the Civil war which came foraging.

Exceptions.

Foots, the comedian, dined one day at a country inn, and the landlord asked how he liked his fare.

"I have dined as well as any man in England," said Foots.

"Except the mayor," cried the landlord.

"I except nobody," said he.

"But you must!" screamed the host.

"I won't!"

"You must!"

At length a petty magistrate took

Foots before the mayor, who observed that it had been customary in that area for a great number of years always to "except the mayor," and accordingly fined him a shilling for not conforming to ancient custom. Upon being taken to the court, Foots paid the shilling, and on his way home observed that he had found the greatest fool of his time—except the mayor.

Strange Human Foods.

The Chinese get a very palatable food from the chrysalis of the silk worm. The poor remove the envelope, broil the chrysalis and eat it with salt and pepper. In the homes of wealth, however, the chrysalis is fried in lard, butter or oil, and mixed with the yolk of an egg. But the strangest of all food is the larvae of a certain fly, common in California and known as the Ephrydra. The flies are washed on the shore in windrows and can be collected in bushel baskets. The Indians gather them, dry them and grow fat on them.

A reporter for the Globe asked an hear several interesting things, but will not repeat them. It is not be-is because I don't believe nine-tenths of what I hear. I don't exactly distrust

FARM STOCK

BOAR NEEDS GOOD ATTENTION

Pasture Not Only Saves Feed But Will Also Prove Excellent Conditioner Don't Overfeed.

The boar needs pasture as well as do the other hogs or the other stock.
Pasture will not only save feed but will also be a good conditioner. If you keep a boar in a small pen, it is always muddy or dusty and then if he is poorly fed in this pen he cannot do his best, and the pigs will be a disappointment. On the other hand, the boar can be fed too much, but the trouble is usually that he doesn't get enough.

It is often thought that the boar is simply a bill of expense and that he does not need much feed. Such being the case, he is fed a little just because he must be kept alive, but this feed is the scantiest amount that can be given and the handiest feed—nearly always just a few ears of corn. He needs something stronger than ear corn. It may cost a little more, but will prove money well spent. The feed should be rich in proteids, which would call for shorts, tankage, oil meal, cowpeas, clover, alfalfa and such feeds, according to Roy Coleman in the Farmers' Review. When fed on such a ration he can produce larger litters and stronger pigs than when poorly fed.

The young boar should not be fed too heavily. If he is overfed it will make him go down in the feet. It will also cause him to wrinkle more when he becomes old. It is hard to grow a prize pig into a prize boar. But if he has not been overdone as a pig he can be made to develop into a good sound boar.

SHOE HAS REMOVABLE CALKS

When Nearly Worn Out These Pieces or Iron Fall Out and Opening Is Left for New Ones.

A new type of horseshoe recently invented has calks that are easily placed and that fall out of the shoe when nearly worn out. The calks have prongs that are a trifle too large for the opening in the shoe, as shown in the illustration, and have to be driven in, says the Popular Mechanics. As the thread of the calk wears Removable Calks in Shoe.

down, the spring action of the prong is weakened and it finally falls out or becomes so loose that it may be picked out easily, leaving the opening ready for the insertion of a new calk.

PREPARE STOCK FOR MARKET

Experience Has Shown That There Is More Growth the First Year Than Second—Keep Pushing.

In preparing stock for the market, too much stress cannot be laid upon rapid development of the animal. Experience has shown that in proportion to the food consumed by young animals, there is more growth the first year than the second, and more the second year than the third, and with each increasing year the increase in weight gets smaller in proportion to the amount of food consumed, consequently it is very essential that all young animals be kept thrifty and growing; especially is this true with all animals intended for market. This is seen in the production of baby beef, which is one of the most profitable businesses to engage in. A quick growth, and an early maturity, returns the best profit among cattle, swine, sheep and poultry. The intelligent farmer, in preparing his stock for market, should always bear in mind the importance of pushing his stock from the time they are born until placed on the market. Every day should see a gain in weight along the lines of profit, yet at the same time this crowding should not be overdone.
There is danger of injuring animals by overfeeding, especially when young. If, however, the feed rations are properly made, looking toward just enough and not too little, or to much, good results may be expected in the end.

Examine Pigs' Teeth.

If the sow is observed to jump up frequently while suckling her pigs or to lie on her belly to prevent them from suckling, better examine the pigs' teeth. You may find them so sharp as to wound the sow's teats as to cause her great pain and annoyance. The needle-like points of the pigs' teeth may be plucked off with a pair of pinchers.

Time for Making Pork.

In a well bred hog that is growing and feeling right there is no time when it will make more pork for the same amount of feed than from ten weeks to six months of age.

HATCHING AND MARKETING HEN'S EGGS

Showing Variations in Size of Hen's Eggs.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The period of time it takes to hatch eggs of the domestic hen is 21 days, according to Farmers' bulletin 562 of the department of agriculture. There are two methods of incubation and brooding, namely, natural and artificial. In natural incubation and brooding the hen is allowed to sit on a nest of eggs and brood or mother the young chicks when hatched. The information contained on this subject is based on the belief that the average farmer has little use for an incubator or brooder unless he intends to hatch and rear chicks unusually early in the spring or in large numbers; therefore only the natural method of incubation and brooding will receive attention at this time.

As the time approaches for the hens to become broody or sit, if care is taken to look in the nests it will be seen that there are a few soft downy feathers being left there by the hens; also, the hens stay longer on the nests when laying at this time, and on being approached will quite likely remain on the nest, ruffling their feathers and pecking at the intruder. When it is noted that a hen sits on the nest for two or three nights in succession, she is ready to be transferred to a nest which should be prepared for her beforehand. This nest should be in a box and composed of straw, hay, or chaff for nesting material. Pack this

Brooder in Use at United State Experiment Farm, Beltsville, Md.

material down firmly and shape a circular nest out of it which should be slightly deeper in the center than at the edges, as a nest so shaped will prevent the eggs from rolling out from under the hen and becoming chilled.
Dust the hen thoroughly with insect powder. In applying the powder, hold the hen by the feet, head down, working the powder well into the feathers, giving special attention to regions around the vent and under the wings.
The powder should also be sprinkled in the nest. The nest should be in some quiet, out-of-the-way place on the farm, where the sitting hen will not be disturbed. Move her from the regular laying nest at night. Handle her carefully in doing so. Put a china egg or two in the nest where she is to sit, and place a board over the opening so that she can not get off.
Toward evening of the second day, quietly go in where she is sitting, and leave some feed and water, and remove the board from the front or top of the nest, and let the hen come off when she is ready. Should she return to the nest after feeding, remove the china egg or eggs and put under those that are to be incubated. In cool weather it is best to put not more than ten eggs under a hen, while later in the spring one can put 12 to 15 according to the size of the hen. If several hens are sitting in the same room, see that they are kept on the nests, only allowing them to come off to get feed and water, which should be once a day.

Many eggs that are laid in the late winter and early spring are infertile.
For this reason it is advisable to set several hens at the same time. After the eggs have been under the hen for seven days they should be tested to see whether they are fertile or infertile.
Infertile eggs should be removed and used at home in cooking or for omelets, and the fertile eggs should be put back under the hen.
For example: Thirty eggs are set under three hens at the same time, ten under each. At the end of seven days we find on testing the eggs that ten are infertile, which leaves us 20 eggs to reset, which we do by putting them under two hens and have the remaining one to set over again after she has set only seven days.

A good home-made egg tester or candle can be made from a large shoe box or any box that is large enough to go over a lamp by removing an end and cutting a hole a little larger than the size of a quarter in the bottom of the box, so that when it is set over a common kerosene lamp the hole in the bottom will be opposite the blaze.
A hole the size of a silver dollar should be cut in the top of the box to allow the heat to escape. An infertile egg, when held before the small hole with the lamp lighted inside the box, will look perfectly clear, the same as a fresh one, while a fertile egg will show a small dark spot, known as the embryo, with a mass of little blood veins extending in all directions if the embryo is living. If dead, if the egg has been incubated for at least 36 hours, the blood settles away from the embryo toward the edges of the yolk, forming in some cases an irregular circle of blood, known as a blood ring.
Eggs vary in this respect, some showing only a streak of blood. The testing should be done in a dark room.

Proper Methods of Marketing Eggs.
When ready to sell the eggs grade them according to size and color and put them into the following classes, is the advice contained in farmers' bulletin 562 of the department of agriculture:

Large white eggs, large brown eggs, small white eggs, and small brown eggs. A uniform lot will, as a rule, command a higher price than a mixed one. When taking them to town keep them covered and out of the direct rays of the sun. The following rules should be followed in the care of eggs:

1. Keep the nests clean; provide one nest for every four hens.
2. Gather the eggs twice daily.
3. Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar.
4. Market the eggs at least twice a week.

An infertile egg is one that is laid by a hen that has not been allowed to run with a male bird, or by a hen from which a male bird has been separated from seven days to three weeks.
Experiments have shown that the time varies. In most cases, however, 14 days is long enough to wait for the eggs to become infertile after the male bird is removed from the female. It is impossible to hatch an infertile egg or to cause a blood ring to form in one. It also keeps in good condition in temperatures that will cause fertile eggs to rot.

A fertile egg is just the opposite of the infertile in many respects. It is the egg that is produced from hens that are running with male birds, although occasionally there are hens running with male birds that lay infertile eggs. This is often the case with hens that are confined in yards and runs, and birds that do not have green feed, or those that are overfat.
The fertile egg is the egg from which the chick is hatched, and the egg that spoils so quickly when subjected to the ordinary methods of handling on the farm and when marketed in the hot summer months under adverse conditions.

"Scrub" is Unprofitable.
The "scrub" of any line of stock is unprofitable.

BORAH SAYS RING OFF

Tells Women 15th is Fatal To National Women Suffrage.

SHOCK FOR THE GALLERIES.

Vigorous Defense of Suffrage Proceeded—Negroes And Japanese in Way.

Washington, March 18.—After a vigorous defense of woman suffrage in the senate, Senator Borah, of Idaho shocked suffrage advocates on the floor and in the galleries by declaring it was impractical and impossible for women to obtain the vote by constitutional amendment. He predicted that after fifteen years of vain endeavor, women should renew their abandoned request before the people of the states, because in seeking an amendment to the federal constitution they had loaded themselves down with the negro question, the Japanese question, and a dozen other states' right problems.

"You never will carry the required thirty-six states for a constitutional woman suffrage amendment," said the senator, "until you repeal the fifteenth amendment."

Asserting that the fifteenth amendment, giving the negro the right to vote, was a blunder in the first place, and now a dead letter, not being enforced in a single state, Senator Borah asked whether advocates of the women suffrage amendment now pending for a moment supposed southern states would add 2,000,000 to the list of those whom they must disfranchise.

"Violation of the law is a bad thing," he added. "It is demoralizing to the negro race to place in the constitution the form of right that we do not mean to say that they shall enjoy."

The fifteenth amendment, the senator declared was a blunder, engendered in a spirit of retaliation.

Answering a question by Senator Thomas, Senator Borah said he was in favor of repealing the fifteenth amendment if woman suffrage could be obtained in no other way. The Idaho senator and Senator Vardaman of Mississippi engaged in a tilt over the progress of the negro race.

Senators Lane, Thomas and Poin-dexter spoke for the amendment. No vote was taken and the resolution will come up again today.
